1 ABOUT PQA

Parliament Question is the most important instrument in the hands of Members of Parliament to raise matter of public importance in the house and seek their answers from the concerned Minister. Therefore one hour is specially designated as the Question Hour on each day of the session in both the Houses of Parliament. Question Hour is one of the most significant items of business in parliamentary proceedings and it gives the whole institution of Parliament the great significance it possesses. This Hour has assumed high importance in legislatures because of Government's heavy involvement in matters affecting the day-to-day life of the citizens for which Ministers are collectively and severally answerable to the people. Asking questions is a refined parliamentary device. Questions are asked primarily to elicit information, to ensure accountability, and for exercising a kind of legislative control over executive actions.

Answers to questions have to be precise and accurate. The information given through the answers has a high presumption of authenticity and wrong or inaccurate answers can be construed as an attempt to mislead the House, leading to raising of questions of privilege. If it is later found that the information supplied bona fide is inaccurate or incorrect, the Minister has to make a statement in the House correcting the previous answer in case it is a starred question or lays a statement on the Table of the House in the case it is an un-starred question.

Where Ministers feel that they cannot supply complete and accurate information at the moment, they can and generally ask for time in respect of that portion of the question and assure the House to supply it as soon as it is available. Such assurances are closely monitored by the Committee on Government Assurances.

Starred Questions: These are Questions to which answers are desired to be given orally on the floor of the House during the Question Hour.

These are distinguished in the printed lists by asterisks. 15 such questions are listed each day.

Un-Starred Questions: These are Questions to which written answers are given by Ministers which are deemed to have been Up to 160 such questions are listed each day in a separate list.

Short Notice Questions: Such questions can be asked orally in the House after the Question Hour or as the first item in the agenda where there is no Question Hour at a notice shorter than that prescribed for Starred and Un-Starred Questions. These must relate to a subject-matter considered by the Chairman to be of urgent public importance.

Submission of Answers to Parliamentary Question by Ministries –
Present Procedure

The replies to the Parliament Questions are prepared by the respective Ministry and sent to the Secretariat on the allotted day for laying on the Table of the House. The Ministries are required to submit the Paper copies of the Parliament Questions for laying. Once the Question Hour is over, the Ministries are also required to send the electronic file of the Parliament Question and Answer to the secretariat by email, for further processing and publishing on the website of the Rajya Sabha. Most of the electronic files of the questions and answers are received by the Secretariat on the day of the question, but several ministries send the electronic files several days later, thus there is a delay in publishing of the Parliament Questions and their replies on the website of the Rajya Sabha.

2 INTRODUCTION

The PQA is the system for e-publishing of Parliament Questions by the Question branch of Rajya Sabha Secretariat and publishing of their answers by the respective Parliament section of the concerned Ministry of the Govt. of India. The system aims at publishing of the replies to the answers to the Parliament Questions on the same day after they are replied in the House, thus making them available on the public portal of the Rajya Sabha immediately without any delay.

The PQA is designed as user/roll based secured web portal hosted over SSL for publishing of information by its various stake holders. In the present System, each Central Ministry/Department has been assigned a user Name / Password (Parliament Section). Question
(a) whether 60 per cent of population is forced to defecate in the open due to absence of toilet facilities in the country as per the recent report of a Government panel;
(b) if so, the details thereof, State-wise;
(c) the reason for such a pathetic condition and the reaction of Government thereto;
(d) the details of toilets constructed under Total Sanitation Campaign (TSC) in the country during 2011 and 2012, so far, State-wise; and
(e) the details of funds allocated and utilized for construction of toilets during the last three years and the current financial year, so far, State-wise?
Answer
(SHRI JAIRAM RAMESH)
(a)to(c): There is no information available regarding the report of said Government panel. However, Government of India administers the Total Sanitation Campaign (TSC), a comprehensive programme started in the year 1999 to facilitate States to ensure sanitation facilities in rural areas with the main objective of eradicating the practice of open defecation and ensuring clean environment. TSC is a demand driven project based programme taking district as a unit covering total rural population of the district not having sanitation facilities. TSC, at present, is being implemented in 607 rural districts of the country. The sanitation coverage in rural areas of the country was 21.9% as per census 2001. With the effective implementation of TSC, the sanitation coverage in rural areas of the country against project objectives has reached 67% as of February
